CARTOON EXPERIMENTS

THE COMPASS

Peter Potamus, So-So and Augie Doggie are caught in a terrible storm. As the storm clears they float above the clouds and try to figure out where they are...

...Not that their expensive compass is much use...

ARGGG!
THE COMPASS
HAS GONE
BERSERK AND WE'RE LOST!

DON'T WORRY, I HAVE AN IDEA!

Augie Doggie collects Peter Potamus' tears in a glass and then pulls a pin from his jacket. He rubs the pin several times with a magnet to magnetise the pin.

Then he sticks the pin in a cork and puts it in a glass so that it floats freely. The pin points north!

DEXTER EXPLAINS ALL

Many thousands of years ago, special metals were discovered. Some of them could even attract or repel other minerals. These metals became known as magnets. All magnets have a surrounding magnetic field. For example, Earth has an iron core of hot liquid and has magnetic currents running through it. It is this that gives Earth its magnetic field. When compasses point to the north, they are pointing to the magnetic North Pole which is near the geographical Arctic Pole. The two poles do not exist in the same place!

Have you ever found north? Rub a needle on a magnet 20 or 30 times, stick it in a cork and float it on water. Now watch it turn to point north! Simple!

HOW TO MAKE AN ELECTROMAGNET

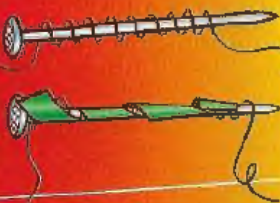

If you pass an electrical current through a non-magnetised metal it will become magnetised and have a magnetic field! The stronger the magnet is, the stronger the field becomes. Follow these instructions to make your own electromagnet!

1 FIND A NAIL ABOUT 5CM LONG

2 CAREFULLY WRAP A WIRE LOOSELY AROUND THE NAIL. NOW WRAP INSULATING TAPE AROUND THE WIRE.

3 ATTACH EACH END OF THE WIRE TO A 9 VOLT BATTERY AND YOUR NAIL IS NOW AN ELECTROMAGNET!

CAN I DO THIS, DEXTER?

ASK A GROWN-UP TO HELP FIRST!

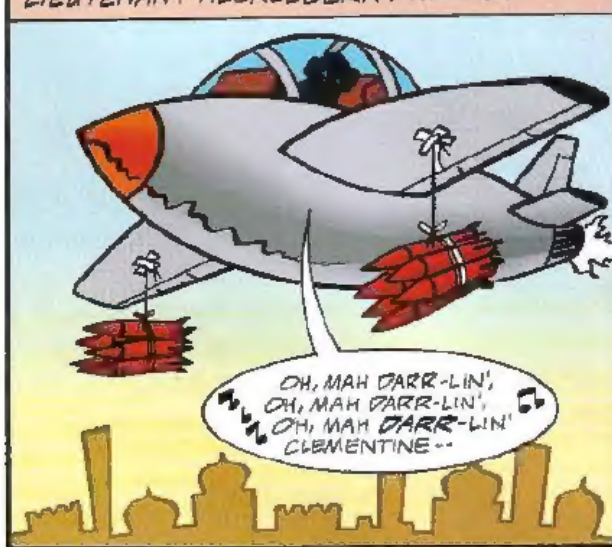

NEVER PUT THE ENDS OF THE WIRE NEAR PLUGS, SOCKETS OR OTHER WIRES.

MANY YEARS AGO, A GREAT THREAT
TO DEMOCRACY AND FREEDOM AROSE
IN A COUNTRY FAR, FAR AWAY.

TO KEEP VIOLENCE FROM ERUPTING, BRAVE
FIGHTER PILOTS WERE SENT TO SAVE THE REGION— AND THE BRAVEST PILOT OF ALL WAS LIEUTENANT HUCKLEBERRY HOUND.

Ed, Edd n Eddy Growing Pains!

Ed, Edd n Eddy are friends because they share the same name, the same cul-de-sac and one of life's most daunting problems - puberty! They just want to belong but first of all they have to decide what it is they want to belong to!

Three very different characters, Ed is a B monster movie freak who suffers from an incredibly short attention span, while Edd is so polite it's painful and communicates with his family through a series of post-it notes. Eddy is a total exhibitionist who knows all the neighbourhood secrets including the location of all the local dens and the recipe for the famous 'El Mongo' stink bomb. Together, they plunge headlong into bizarre summertime adventures, often motivated by their craving for their all-time favourite sweets - 'jaw-breakers'.

To celebrate the Eds' new show, arriving on your television screens soon, we have - yep, you guessed it - a top toon prize to give away! Ten lucky winners will each receive an Ed, Edd n Eddy T-shirt, Pac-a-mac and mousemat. Stand a chance of winning by answering the following question:

'What are Ed, Edd n Eddy's favourite sweets called?'

THE FLINTSTONES STONEAGE SPORTS!

Welcome, sports fans! We all know how great Fred and Barney are at ten-pin bowling. But what about the other sports that fill their prehistoric playtime? Fearless Fred tells us all!

BASHBALL

Ah, the sound of Mastodon leather striking petrified wood! This is a great team game, perfect for those long summer days. Unfortunately, with the Rubbles' tiny terror, Bam-Bam involved, we have to make sure that there are no greenhouses (or stone houses or wooden houses...any buildings at all, in fact) within a five mile radius!

The little tyke sure can strike a long ball! And I mean loooong! After this classic shot last summer, we couldn't play another game for weeks because we were waiting for the ball to come back from orbit!

TENNIS

Barney named this game, but I can't tell what he's going on about. Where's the ten come from? As far as I'm concerned four is quite enough for this sport. Any more than four people and you start to bump into each other! Maybe we should start calling the game 'Fouris'! What do you think?

SPLISHING

This is one for the guys, guys! With a six-pack of Jurassic Juice, it provides the perfect relaxation after a hard week working down at the quarry. Plus, it's a great excuse to get out of mowing the lawn! What could be more important than catching dinner? Funny thing though...Dino doesn't seem to want to come splishing anymore. I can't think why...

GULF

I named this game after the large body of water I usually land my ball in. I love to play this sport when I'm in a bad mood. I just imagine Mr Slatelly's face on the ball and...BLAM! Straight into another sand pit! Barney tells me the idea should be to get the ball down that little hole on the grass. How ridiculous is that?! That will never catch on!

CROC-SURFING

Yabba-dabba-doo! The surf's up and it's time for some fun! Twice a year those dumb lizards swim in the shallows to hunt for fish. They get so full and lazy, you can just ride them in to the shore. A little tip for you, sports fans. Don't jump on a hungry crocodile. He kinda gets the wrong idea and isn't very sporting about it...

JOGGING

Now, this sport has no appeal to me at all! Strapping on a stony squawkman and running around the block a few times? What do Wilma and Betty get out of that?!

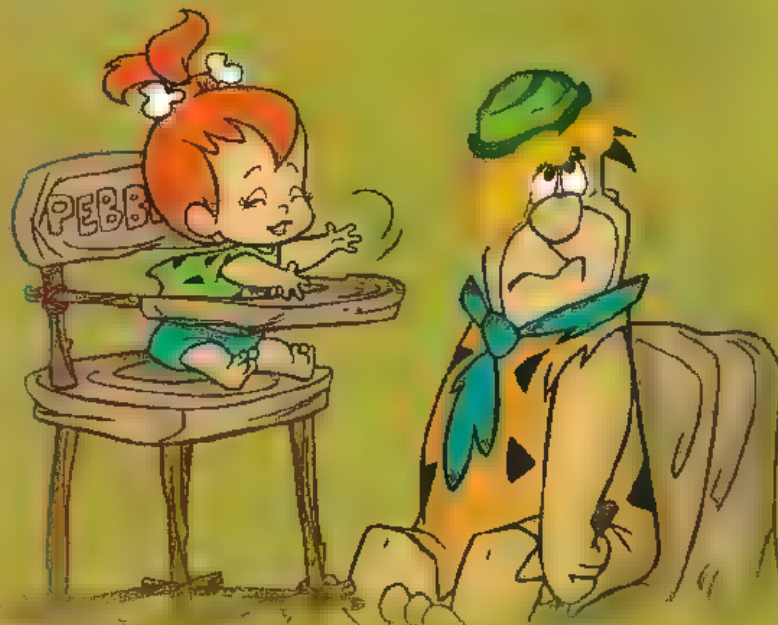

Barney reckons they just like listening to Rocky Road's new compact disc away from us guys, but who knows? Extreme physical exercise... avoid at all times!

PARENTING

Perhaps the most difficult sport there is. There's no holds barred, the rules constantly change in the child's favour and you need incredible speed and agility to duck out of the way of flying pudding bowls. I just hope as mankind develops through the ages he gets a better handle on this game! Me? I'm pooped. Catch you soon, sports fans!

STONE AGE FACTS

1. It's sad but true, Stone Age man and dinosaurs never existed on Earth at the same time. The Dinosaurs died out 64 million years ago, millions of years before man's ancestors first appeared.

2. The species we know as modern man is called Homo sapiens by scientists and historians. Traces of this species of cave man were first found in Britain and Germany and are a mere 200,000 years old.

3. Homo sapiens were mainly hunters and gatherers who sheltered in caves, used fire and made simple stone tools. They first appeared during the Palaeolithic period or Old Stone Age.

4. It wasn't until the Neolithic period or New Stone Age (about 6000 - 3000 B.C.) that man started to grow his own food on simple farms and to domesticate animals.

johnny brave

When it comes to the battle of the barnets, in Joshua Hyman's picture, aged 7 from Stockport, we think Johnny's would win over Marge's every time

Dear Cartoon Network, I love your show, I watch it every day. I drew a picture of DEXTER'S LABORATORY because I love the character Dexter. I think he's very funny. Guess why I love Dexter's Laboratory? Because I love doing Science. We do a lot of Science at School.

From Katie Hoggarth (Aged 7 1/2) from Oxfordshire

Dexter's reply:

Many thanks for your letter and top picture, Katie. It's encouraging to hear from a fellow scientist. Maybe one day people will realise our true value and we will rule the world. Until that day though, Katie, I would advise you to keep up the good work and keep those meddling Mandarks and devastating Dee Dees at bay.

Patrick Turner, (age 10) from Stoke on Trent sent us this ace pic of Dexter. Check out his questions in RED'S QUESTION CORNER to see what a major Dexter Fan he is!

YES! SUCCESS IN ALL MINE!

Dexter has just mastered his million times table in Tanya Jewell's picture. Tanya is aged 6 from Essex.

Mary Lookie from Edinburgh has sent in this picture of what Cow and Chicken's parents might look like above the waist. Of course, we all know there's nothing of them above the waist!

RED'S QUESTION CORNER!

Here's Patrick Turner's questions to start the ball rolling!

1. Why does Dexter always wear gloves?
2. Why does Freakazoid have a blue face?
3. Why did Dexter create his Laboratory?

And my snappy answers are:

1. To stop him biting his fingernails
2. He holds his breath a lot
3. Well, it was better than doing his maths homework!

Here's more Dexter bits from Aaron O'Shea, (age 9 1/2) from Luton

1. Who is Supercow?
2. I think that there should be a Dexter movie. Will there be one?
3. How did Dexter get his lab?

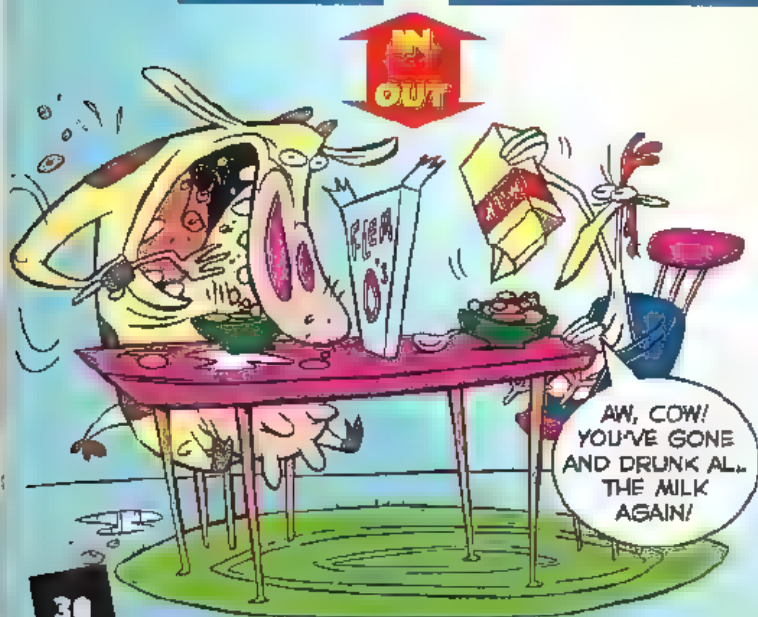

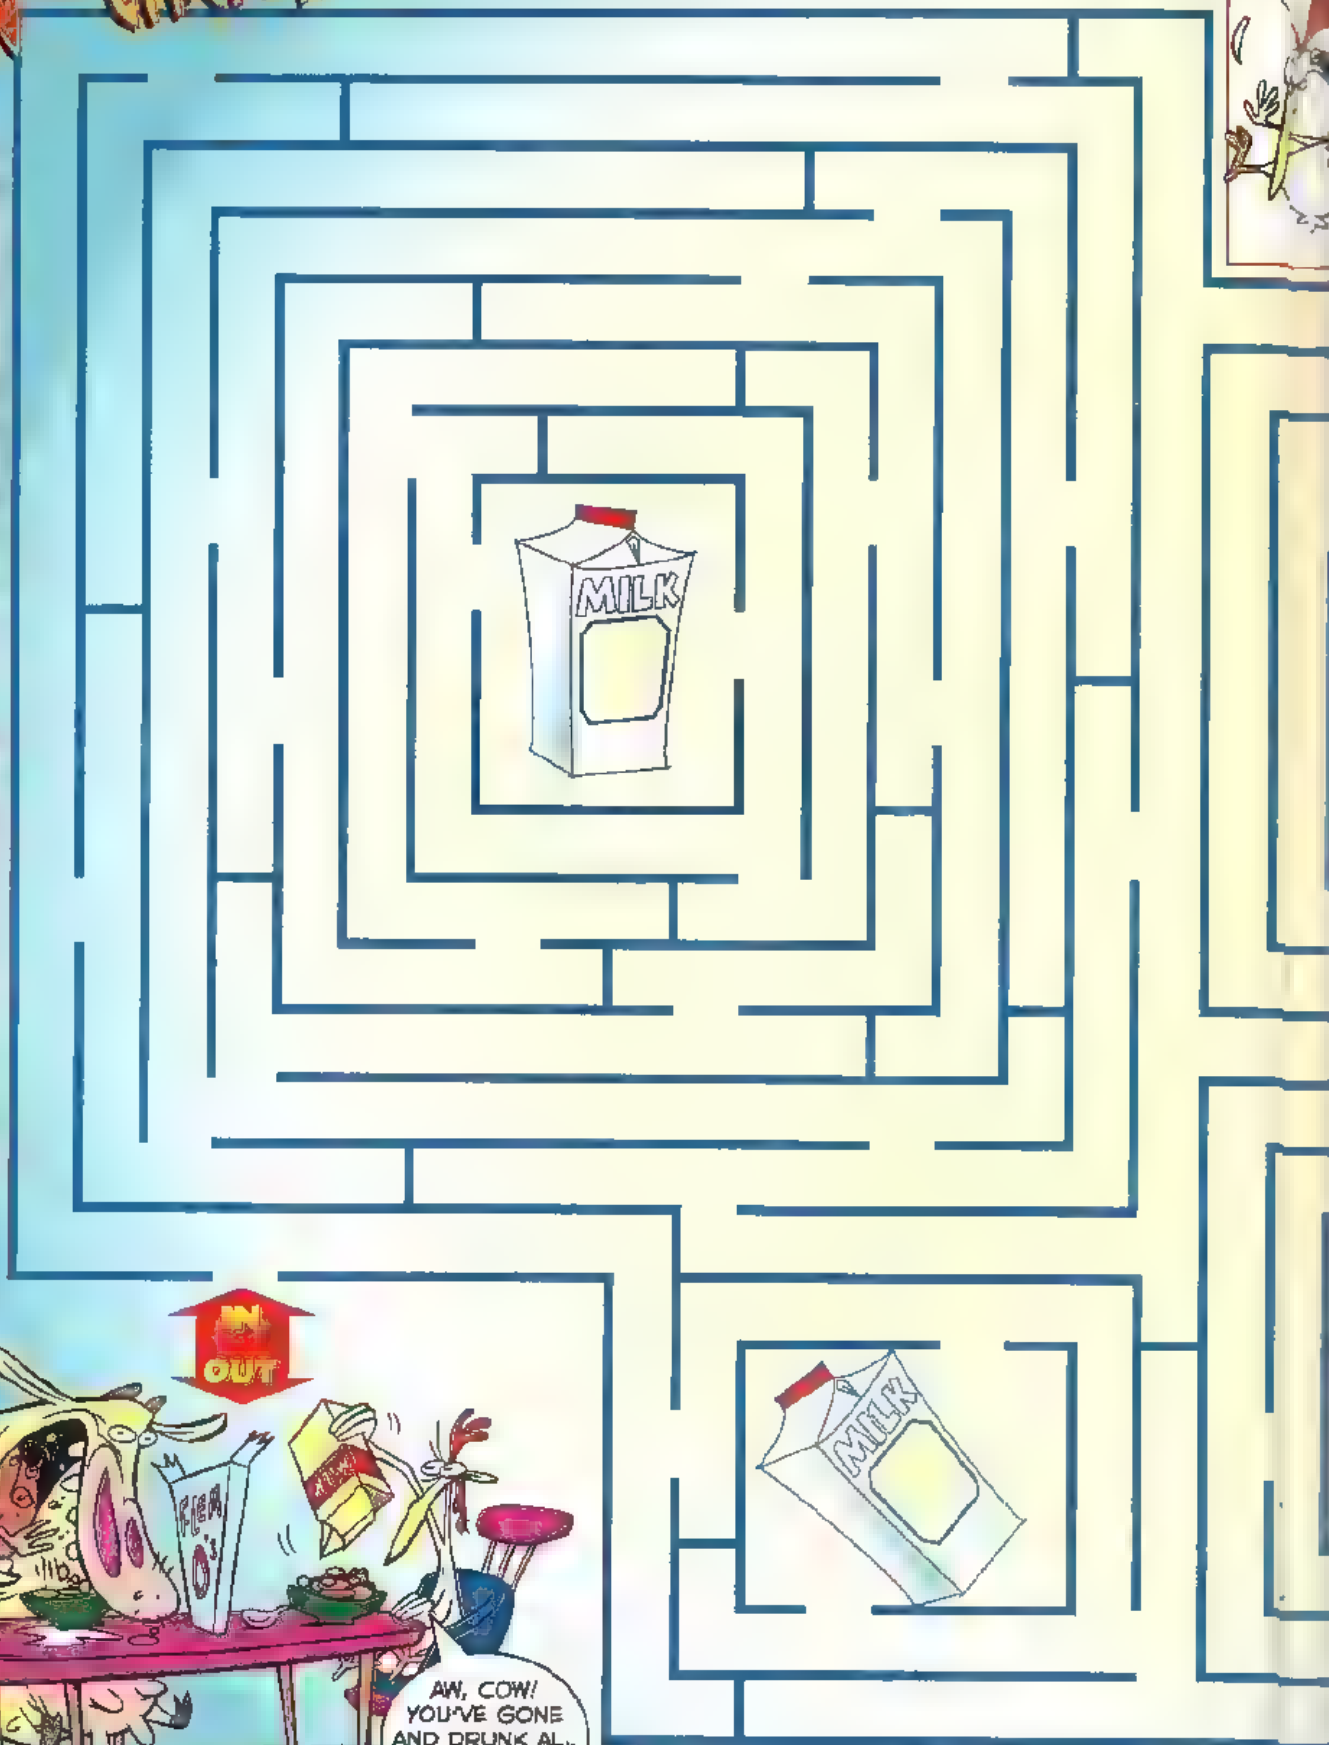

PS. Cartoon Network Comic is the best!

AT: such fine taste in one so young! Here's your helping of answers:

1. I haven't a clue who Supercow is! It's a well kept international secret. (Or maybe you should watch the show a little more closely for the answer!)
 2. No plans for a Dexter Movie as yet Shame!
 3. Dexter started off his lab with an Acme mad Scientist Kit #1. Then it just sort of grew.
